

Stress-free meetings with Sennheiser TeamConnect

Wedemark/Amsterdam, 4 February 2014 – The new Sennheiser TeamConnect offers exceptional simplicity for stress-free audio conferences. The audio specialist is launching its all-in-one audio meeting solution for corporate and government facilities at Integrated Systems Europe in Amsterdam.

Sennheiser TeamConnect is an end-to-end professional grade meeting solution, ensuring simplicity of installation and use, great value and brilliant sound quality. The system integrates speakers, mics, central control unit and connectivity management – everything needed to cater for standard meeting rooms of up to 16 users on site. It is the perfect solution for businesses and public sector organizations.

“We are making the start of every conference call a stress-free zone. TeamConnect represents a total system approach to audio conferencing where every component is designed to work with each other, letting users get on with business,” said Wienand Mensendiek,

Manager Portfolio and Channel Development at Sennheiser. “We have made it easy to use a mobile device to control meetings, e. g. with your business smartphone, tablet or laptop. As with the significant cost savings, this level of flexibility, performance and simplicity can only come from an integrated system.”

Connecting made easy

TeamConnect is a complete audio solution consisting of the Central Unit CU1 – which offers both LAN and WiFi connectivity options, SpeechLine microphones and active loudspeakers. To guarantee the best possible meeting solution for customers, Sennheiser has partnered with a leading player in audio and video conferencing and developed TeamConnect in cooperation with ClearOne, one of the world's leading DSP specialists.

“The Sennheiser TeamConnect solution makes it easy to link to networks and to connect business mobile devices in order to operate the system”, Wienand

Mensendiek explained. An iOS app offers touchscreen control of web and audio conferences on iPad and iPhone, while a browser-based web app provides a similarly easy-to-use interface on other devices.

The system comprises up to up eight Sennheiser SpeechLine microphones and with its audio outputs to drive rich immersive sound from the active SpeechLine speakers, also part of the package – TeamConnect is the perfect choice to serve any standard-sized conference room. With an easy installation into the existing room management infrastructure and clear effective fine-tuning software, the solution will not only be appreciated by audio and IT professionals. Once it's set up, it'll also be valued by end users, who will be spared the usual difficulties of starting up an audio conference.

TeamConnect at ISE 2014

TeamConnect is being unveiled at ISE 2014 (Integrated Systems Europe) from 4-6 February 2014 in Amsterdam. Visitors can try out the new conferencing system at the Sennheiser booth.

The Sennheiser TeamConnect meeting solution is available from now on.
